Vol. 30 No. 20 — DRAYTON VALLEY, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1994 — Price 35¢

4-H'ers to hold show here

Over 55 club members will compete in the annual 4-H beef show and sale to be held May 28 in the Drayton Valley Centennial Arena beginning at 11 p.m. Members from Two Rivers, Tomahawk, Drayton Valley, Lobstick and Chip Lake will participate in the interclub show.

The calves were weighed on Nov. 1 and the 4-Hers have been working on them since that time.

Each club will participate individually in events such as grooming and showmanship. The clubs will then enter their winners in similar interclub competitions.

Calves will be weighed at the show to determine which one has the best rate of gain; an important part of the beef project.

There will be classes for steers, heifers and cow and calf. A highlight of the show will be the grand champion class which will have the champion and reserve champion from each club competing.

The beef sale will begin at 8 p.m. Representatives from local packing plants will be on hand to assess animals for those bidding.

Those unable to attend the sale but interested in buying can contact club leaders.

Drayton Valley M.L.A. Shirley Cripps and mayor Bob Mayhew are two of the dignitaries expected to attend the event.

Police Week

RCMP Constable Bill Watkins shows an Eldorado Grade 2 class a speed loader, which enables a policeman to load the bullets into the gun all at once instead of one by one. It was open house at the Drayton Valley RCMP station as children of all ages tried on bullet-proof vests, had their fingerprints taken and got to hear the cruiser sirens at close range.

Council aims for town growth

By Frankie Thorahill

Drayton Valley town council is planning a meeting in the near future with Chamber of Commerce executives and selected local business people to discuss the common goal of economic development for the town and surrounding area.

Mayor Bob Mayhew said he would welcome comments in writing prior to the meeting from the community at large. Town council felt a smaller format would be more manageable and productive.

"We're not trying to slip into a corner someplace and do something mysterious," he added.

Ten per cent more industry based in Drayton Valley would stabilize the economy and reduce taxes, he said.

"Economic development is a necessity for the town to enable the town to grow," said Councillor Charlie Miner; without growth, "the town stagnates -- in effect deteriorates."

Miner pointed out the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce was concerned with economic growth, but said council must also play a part. "That requires a commitment of time and money.

"We need to present our town and our needs not only to business and industry, but need to keep ourselves before the provincial government also," he added.

"We're not asking for a handout, we're looking for an opportunity to be given fair and adequate consideration with everyone else."

With modern schools and facilities Drayton Valley has much to offer potential developers, but "if we just do nothing but sit back and kope, then I don't see any hope," he said.

"One of the obstacles we have to overcome is the image this town has of being a rough oil town in the boondocks with mud up to your knees," Miner added.

Town asked to conserve water

Drayton Valley residents are being asked by the town to ration water use during peak periods to alleviate the load on the town's water purification plant.

The voluntary rationing system "was exercised a couple of years ago and it worked very well," said town manager Manny Deol in bringing the recommendation to council Thursday.

Mayor Bob Mayhew moved that "residents of Drayton Valley be requested to co-operate" with water rationing, which passed after a lengthy discussion on whether the new reservoir slated for construction soon would end the need for such Residents are asked not to water lawns or gardens between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. Residents north of 50 Avenue may water lawns and gardens on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m., and those living south of 50 Avenue may water Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m.

The entire town may water on Sundays after 7 p.m.

Councillor Charlie Miner questioned whether the problem would be solved once the new reservoir was built. "Are we still not going to have that heavy load on the plant?"

Library hosts art display

After a three-year wait Drayton Valley Municipal Library has been accepted to host Alberta Art Foundation traveling collections.

An exhibit of 15 lithographs by Canadian artist John Snow is now on display as the initial showing in the series.

"We're very pleased about that because it's difficult to get on their list," said librarian Lois Peterson. "They're very much in demand."

The Snow works will remain here until June 15, and new collections will be hung about every two months. Look Around and Art & the Imagination are two collections of children's art, both comprising nine works, to be on display July, August and September.

In order to get feedback from the public, Peterson has set up a book for comments.

Snow was born in Vancouver, B.C. in 1911 and raised in Alberta. A self-taught printmaker, painter and sculptor, he began making lithographs in 1953.

"If I'm doing a color lithograph the color comes first," he explains. "I don't care what happens to the subject or if its dimensions are right. I don't mind distorting for the sake of color."

Snow handles traditional subject matter, such as a bowl of fruit or an arrangement of flowers with simple forms and bold color, without the intention of recording a particular place or scene.

"I'm really more interested in creating an impression of a circumstance or the way a person is."

Librarian Lois Peterson with one of 15 John Snow lithographs now on exhibit at the local library.

Lithographs are original prints produced by drawing with a greasy substance on a block of limestone or a metal plate. The stone or plate is then desensitized by a chemical process so the unmarked area will repel ink, and the area drawn on will accept ink as it's rolled on.

The print is taken by placing a sheet of paper on the surface of the stone or plate and passing both through a press.

Letter writers invited to council meeting

Three local men who had letters published in the May 9 edition of The Western Review criticizing town council's performance will receive formal invitations to attend the June 7 council meeting.

"We welcome anybody to come and make presentations," said Mayor Bob Mayhew in extending the invitation, referring to the "severe criticism" expressed in two letters, one from Raymond Gusek and the other from Virgil Bathe and Bill Cookson.

Ten bids were submitted to the town for construction of the Drayton Valley reservoir and pump station; the lowest at $1,145,643 from Alberco Construction Ltd., the company awarded the indoor pool contract. The highest bid was $1,398,555, and the average was $1,256,880.

The contract will be awarded June 1.

A request from the Town of Grand Centre that the Town of Drayton Valley write to local MLA Shirley Cripps and Municipal Affairs Minister Julian Koziak to consider Grand Centre's financial problems was denied.

"The Town of Drayton Valley had financial problems three years ago, but we fought it out and did it on our own," Mayhew said, "we didn't have other municipalities coming to help us."

Councillor Charlie Miner suggested a letter of sympathy be sent to Grand Centre. "We're not prepared to take their fight for them to the government," he added.

Council set a policy stating it would not consider giving donations other than to senior citizens' transportation and the Drayton Valley Municipal Airport to help cover the facility's annual operating deficit of $20,000 to $25,000, based on $30 per flight twice a month.

Corporations using the airport more than twice a month will be charged a higher rate.

Construction may go ahead on a proposed Bicycle Moto-Cross (BMX) track as soon as insurance responsibilities are clarified. Regular use of the track will probably be added on to the town's insurance with coverage for special events to be obtained by the sponsor.

Province announces highway upgrading

A major improvement project on Highway 39 was recently announced by Transportation Minister Marvin Moore.

Additional pavement will be applied to 24 kilometres of Highway 39 east of the junction of Highway 12 to west of Carnwood.

There will also be intersection improvements made at the junction of Secondary Road 778 and Highway 39 north of Thorsby.

"This is part of a planned rehabilitation program for highways in this province," said Shirley Cripps, Drayton Valley MLA.

"The tender will be advertised in the next week or so and the contract will be awarded soon after," she said.

Cripps added that truckers in the area are "extremely happy" about the plans.

The improvements are scheduled for completion this summer.

Light horse club holds open show

The novelty classes had something for everyone

While 4-H clubs hold Achievement Days for their members the local West Valley 4-H Light Horse Club has also been holding an open show class for the past five years.

Over 60 horses were entered in 36 classes Saturday at the day-long event held at Harke's Arena north of Drayton Valley.

"We have an open show so that the kids can experience a bit of competition," said club leader Colleen Davis.

Their club will be holding its Achievement Day at the end of June and provided this opportunity to compete in the performance classes in both Western and English events.

Halter classes were held and four age groups were allowed to compete from five years to adult.

Specialty events were also offered, some serious and some strictly for the pleasure of the riders and the audience.

The western trail class demonstrated the riders' control and training of their mounts as they took them over a six-place obstacle course.

Backing up, sidestepping and gates were all part of the means used to test the animals and their riders abilities.

In the novelty classes events were held such as a horseman's version of musical chairs and the bareback dollar bill ride.

High point winners in their respective classes were: 10 and under - Travis Waddle with Cheyenne Junior; 11 to 13 - Vera Fleischhacker with Mes Scott Reynolds; 14 to 17 - Aliya Hoskee with Mes Sons Desk; and 18 and over - Kathy Harke with Whiskey Gold.

Old hospital vacated

Staff, patients move into new healthcomplex

Tuesday was a hectic day for staff and patients alike at the Drayton Valley General Hospital as they made the long-awaited move to the new Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

Patients were moved by ambulance and all staff chipped in to help move equipment to make sure everything essential was in place at the new facility.

Construction began May 17, 1982, and minor delays postponed the opening originally hoped to take place in December, 1983 – but after 14 years of planning the complex is operational.

The new hospital has 50 extended care beds and 50 acute care beds, comprising maternity, surgery and active treatment. The old building had only 47 acute care beds and no facilities specifically for extended care.

Alder Flats holds annual race meet

Anyone who has a horse and wants a challenge has a chance to prove his or her prowess at the annual Alder Flats Race Meet May 26.

The event features eight horse races; from pony chuckwagon and chariot races to the unconventional cowhide race. The cowhide race has people on cowhides being pulled by others on horses.

Other races include the ¼-mile open and pack horse races as well as the walk, trot and run race.

The races take place at the Alder Flats Community Centre at 2 p.m., preceded by a parade at 1 p.m.

There is no deadline for entries and over $1,000 in prizes is up for grabs. Trophies will be awarded as well.

The day begins with a pancake breakfast and ladies' baseball tournament in the morning.

Water system

Peak periods taken care of by the plant now will be handled by the new reservoir, "once we have a million gallons storage," Deol said.

He added the third phase of the town's improvements to the water system involves upgrading the plant, which is now running an average of 16 to 20 hours a day. "We're going to double the actual line from the plant to the town in Phase 3 as well."

Opinions

Alberta artist deserves look

In a broad sense you can say recreation is comprised of two areas: arts and sports.

Sports are more accessible because they are associated with the playing we do as we grow up. That sense of sportsmanship continues throughout most people's lives, and takes up a considerable amount of our adult leisure time whether we're involved as spectators or participants.

The arts, on the other hand, don't enjoy the same exposure in a pure sense, but are still used in some form or another in the form of television, music, advertising graphics, clothing design and the like.

Both areas are important to our society's overall wellbeing.

Unfortunately, rural Alberta communities tend towards sports when it comes time to build facilities and spend money.

Direct exposure to "pure" art forms is rare in small towns, so when the library brings in an art show such as the one presently showing the opportunity to view it should be taken.

The present showing of John Snow's works represents a reasonable depiction of 15 years of his work.

Although he hasn't affected the art world like Bobby Orr affected hockey, he deserves a place in Alberta art circles similar to the one enjoyed by such teammates of Bobby Orr as Johnny McKenzie or Ken Hodge.

"... da next poll, can't you at least say I'm leading in the west?"

Hot junior player next Canadiens' Beliveau

Hockey is on everyone's mind this week – and with good reason.

For the first time ever the National Hockey League's June draft will be telecast across the country.

The fate of the Laval Voisons star Mario Lemieux will almost certainly have an effect on the team which chooses him.

After breaking a number of scoring records in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League he is the easy pick for the number one draft choice.

Speculation surrounds the Pittsburg Penguins and their decision to keep him or deal him to either the Montreal Canadiens or Quebec Nordiques. Each team has made its desire for the young centre known.

Touted as a new Jean Beliveau (only one of a series Stanley Cup team leading centres in the illustrious history of Les Canadiens) he is just what my team needs.

They drink beer in Steeltown (Pittsburg, for all those who don't follow NFL football), so perhaps Molsons (owners of Les Canadiens) could trade trainloads of beer to the Penguins for the first round choice.

We almost made it past the Islanders this year and with a little more offense we could have done it. So, whoever finally wins between the Islanders and the Eskimoes is going to have a new Canadiens team to deal with next year.

Mario Lemieux would ensure victory.

Government 'poorly' serving public

Letters

Dear Editor:

I believe that we have been poorly served by the present government, considering the following: The recent tax increase, the subsidy of interest to business and homeowners; we are paying $400 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas and for gasoline we pay close to $2 per gallon of which the oil companies get 25 per cent.

Almost without exception, everyone in private industry, be they farmers, or small business owners and their employers have taken a cut in income which averages about 40 per cent, while those paid by taxpayers, through the government have had pay raises from five to 25 per cent, and in some cases of government reclassification to circumvent wage guidelines, it has been even higher.

Other matters to consider are a ski slope with no snow, a golf course open to only those of us properly dressed, regardless that we paid for it, airports where no one owns planes but a convenience to the MLA.

Also consider that this part of the county was built up by strong and strong-minded individuals, to whom socialism is, and always has been, a bad word. We have socialists in government and opposition.

The two independent MLAs won't be elected again as independents and the NDP will only advance if there is no alternative to them for opposition.

Film student gains experience in Montreal

After her first year at the National School of the Arts in Montreal, Terri Gillis is halfway towards completing her course and beginning a career in film production and direction.

In her first 10 months of study at the prestigious school, Gillis has made large strides towards her goals, working in such areas as stage management, set design and sound and lighting techniques.

Although Gillis has been involved with community television here and drama through the Drayton Valley Players, her program has allowed for more depth and experience. "It's no different. It's professional training as opposed to the work I did before."

While the Drayton Valley resident says she enjoys the school and course, she admits the work is hard and long.

"It's been a lot of work, but it's been fun. You get to know everyone in your course. When you work 16 hour days you get to know people pretty well."

The classes at the national school are kept small with each applicant undergoing an interview and an entrance exam before the school decides on acceptance. In her particular production course, Gillis explains, only 13 students were accepted out of some 90 that made application in 1983.

The school itself is divided into four areas: production, playwriting, directing and acting with each using professional instructors to guide students through the two-year courses.

When asked why she chose production, Gillis explained it was simply where her interests lay, as opposed to drama or acting. "Acting doesn't interest me as much as production," she says adding "and I'm probably better at production than I am at acting."

Gillis' school year is divided into two segments and two major projects which require students to create a play production from start to finish on paper.

"(It's) never put on stage, but you do everything for the whole production. You think up your own designs, your own lighting and it's all on paper," Gillis says. The second project is similar only more in depth.

Each semester is also divided up with some nine weeks of actual instruction and five weeks preparing a term production.

Gillis will return to Montreal this fall to complete her second year.

Papal flag raised

St. Anthony Grade 6 student Chris Hutchinson helps classmates raise the yellow and white papal flag up the school flag pole at 3 p.m. Fri., May 18 — Pope John Paul's birthday. More than 6,000 flags were distributed to Alberta Catholic schools to be raised simultaneously in honor of the Pope's visit this September. Each class was presented with a desk top flag and a special prayer designated for the papal visit was said after the flag was flying to close the ceremony.

Banner contest winner

Student to attend special Ottawa ceremony

By Carol Dietrich

Not everyone gets a chance to take a free trip to Ottawa. But Dyan Eckert and 47 other specially chosen high school students from across Canada will be doing that this summer.

Eckert, a Grade 10 student at Frank Maddock High School, is one of the four Alberta students chosen as this province's winners in a banner exhibition project. Every province and territory will be sending four winners to the nation's capital.

The students were asked to submit drawings on the theme, A Picture of My Capital. The drawings were to represent what Ottawa meant to the student.

The contest was open to only Grade 10 students and was sponsored by the federal government.

Eckert's banner had tulips, soldiers and the parliament buildings on it. The project took about two weeks to complete.

How did she feel when she found out she was a winner? "I was jumping all over the place. I was happy and surprised." She said she also felt honored. And when her friends found out, "they all wanted to come along (to Ottawa)."

Dyan Eckert will travel to Ottawa in June to attend a special banner raising ceremony.

The trip lasts from June 28, to July 2. The students will be staying at the Terry Fox Center in Ottawa. They will attend the banner raising ceremony, have dinner with some of the members of parliament and do some sightseeing.

The banners will be displayed at the visitor centre and in parks in the national capital region.

Introduction To LIFELINE®

Lifeline® is a personal emergency response system that helps elderly or disabled persons to maintain their independence. Local hospitals and agencies provide Lifeline® as a service to their communities. In a three year HEW sponsored study of Lifeline,® the service was shown to improve the quality of life of elderly while reducing the costs of long term care.

Lifeline® provides immediate 24-hour access to community medical and social services at the press of a button. Each subscriber has a Lifeline® Communicator at home and a portable button that can be worn on clothing or carried around the house in a pocket. At the first sign of trouble, the person can push the button which sends an electronic message, via the telephone, to the hospital or agency Emergency Response Center where trained personnel arrange for help. Lifeline® has the ability to send a signal for help even when a person is unconscious. A timer, if not reset, will automatically send the signal.

At the Emergency Response Center there is an information card for each subscriber, listing the person's name, address, telephone number, medical condition and the names of persons to be called in an emergency. These helpers, called emergency responders, are selected by the subscriber and usually include neighbors, friends, and relatives. They are backed up by community service providers such as police, ambulance service, visiting nurse associations, and fire fighters.

Lifeline® was designed by Professor Andrew S. Dibner, a Boston University specialist in rehabilitation and gerontology. The system was studied and tested under a $640,000 U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare research grant. The study showed that Lifeline® users were more confident about living independently and it recommended widespread use of the emergency response system.

During the last four years, over 500 hospitals and agencies across the country have established Lifeline® programs. Subscribers have used Lifeline® in cases of heart attacks, falls, strokes, emotional stress, robbery and assault. The Lifeline® program benefits the elderly and handicapped, their families, and their communities.

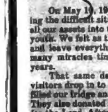
Anonymous 'blessing' lifts depressed spirits



Faith Column

By Irvin L. Reich

On May 11, 1984, my wife and I were discussing the difficult situation we were in, since we put all our assets into the work we are doing with the youth. We felt as though we could just walk away and leave everything, even though we had seen many miracles time and time again in the past years.

That same day, near noon, we had several visitors drop in to visit. They came with food that filled our fridge and with some to freeze and store. They also donated money to the work we are doing for the Lord. After everyone had left, we counted the money which was a generous amount. It suddenly struck us that we had some repenting to do for the grumbling that morning.

The next morning my wife went to Evansburg to pick up the mail. Nothing in the mail excited her as much as one letter that had a poem in it, just for the time when we needed it most. It blessed us so tremendously, and I know there are many people that read this, who may for some reason be ready to give up and quit, so I want you to receive the same blessing we did when we read this poem.

Don't Quit

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up hill,
When funds are low and debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.
Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many fellow turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out.
Don't give up though the pace seems slow --
You may succeed with another blow.
Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man;
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the Victors cup;
And he learned too late when the night came down,
How close he was to the golden crown.
Success is failure turned inside out --
The silver tint of clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems a far;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit--
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.
Author unknown

After reading this we made up our minds that we will never quit. Phil. 4:13 says, I can do all things through Christ which strengthneth me.

If you're hurting, discouraged, or sickness and disease has put you down, or even working for the Lord seems unrewarding and difficult, remember we're praying for you. Don't quit!

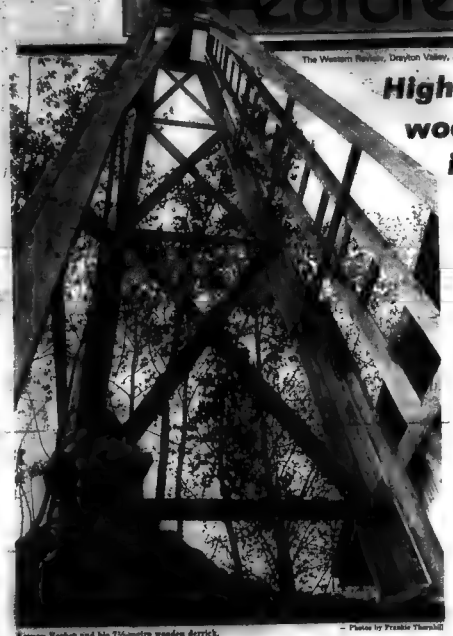
High-rigger builds wooden derrick in back yard



Vernon Kerber and his 7½-metre wooden derrick. — Photos by Frankie Theriault

When the pump quit working in Vernon Kerber's water well, he didn't call the repair man — he built a 7½-metre wooden derrick to help retrieve it. Building derricks was nothing new to Kerber, who began high rigging at age 16 in Turner Valley in 1940.

"I quit school one day and went working on the rigs the next day. It was kind of tough going for a kid," he said, admitting it was scary at first walking along the scaffolding without safety belts. Some of the old wooden derricks reached 41 metres in height.

Kerber's derrick is a model of those early wooden rigs that went out of style in the early '60s.

But his derrick building experience extends to his early youth, when he and his friends used to build their own rigs. "Half a mile away they were drilling for oil and we were drilling holes."

The derrick in his backyard took him two days to build from 2x4s and 1x6s in January, 1974 when the pump gave out cutting off his only water supply. He put the 250-kilogram rig on wheels and hauled it by truck to the well in his front yard, and hooked the line up to the water pipe attached to the pump 50 metres below the ground.

With the help of pulleys he hoisted the 10 six metre sections of pipe out of the well one by one, until finally the pump was up. "We put a good one back in," he said, adding he's had no problems with it in the last 10 years.

He's also used the hand-operated derrick to drill a 12-metre hole in his back yard, "just to see how well we could make holes."

Using several attachments he had specially made for the rig, he hit water at 4.3 metres and kept on going despite the boulders in the way. First he had to drill a smaller pilot hole to get between the rocks, and then used a hand auger attached to two six-metre lengths of piping strung together.

He also has haiers he can lower into the 18-centimetre hole to draw up water. Everything was done with hand-cranked line leading from the crown block down to the pipe string.

Kerber's rig-building expertise was called upon in 1966 to construct the wooden derrick standing almost 30 metres high in Calgary's Heritage Park. "I was one of the youngest rig builders left still able to climb," he said.

Even conventional steel rigs are a thing of the past with the introduction of jackknife rigs. "They don't need rig-builders any more." One thing rigs still do need is to be leveled from time to time, and Kerber has had his own company for jacking and levelling rigs since 1961.

Key number three for lucky Aquarius sign

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Bender

The moon is at apogee — the point in its orbit that is furthest from the earth.

It is also in the fourth quarter and the zodiac sign of Pisces, which is a fruitful water sign.

Plant root crops and move perennial roots. Set out transplants if you are worried that they may not root well.

Those who go by the four quarters will plant nothing.

Pisces is always the escapists' sign. We all escape in our own way. Some drink, some read. Whatever your form of escape you can enjoy it most now, and a bit of willpower might be in order.

The confusion of Neptune will enter all phases of your life so avoid making decisions that should be based on logic.

May 25 and 26 will find us in the dry, arid sign of Aries. The moon is still in fourth quarter. Those who go by zodiac signs and those who go by the four quarters will both stop planting and agree that this is the time to kill weeds and insect pests. Plough and rototill. Prune plants to retard their growth.

May 28 and 29 will find us in the semi-fruitful earth sign of Taurus as well as in fourth quarter and very close to new moon. This is your last chance to plant root crops during the dark of the moon. Plant potatoes, tubers, bulbs, and roots of all kinds.

May 30 new moon will occur. This is the time to set eggs under hens or in incubators so the chicks will grow like the moon.

Superstition has it that animals born at new moon are sickly and don't grow well so plan to sell them early on. The weather may change abruptly May 30 so make your plans with that in mind.

Whose lucky week is it?

Aquarius is the lucky sign with the luckiest birthdays falling between Feb. 15 and 19 this week.

The key number for all people born under Aquarius is three. Use it any way you can and you life will be in harmony. Three is a powerful number. A memento mori. Think of the three hunters who came upon the three dead men who exhibited the three warnings, "Thus will ye be, and as ye are, so once were we," "Rich must die as well as poor", and "None may escape death."

Think of the three days Jesus spent in the tomb and the three days Jonah spent in the whale's belly. It is the most frequent number in the Bible. It is a number well suited to the most humane and humeneticist of signs — Aquarius.

Important days this week

Ones who enjoy the pagan feasts of Christmas, Easter, and Hallowen should celebrate the Feast of St. Augustine May 26. He was the Roman monk who came to convert the pagan English to Christianity round about 600 A.D. To make it easier for them he kept the dates of pagan festivals but purified them into Christian celebrations!

St. Augustine is the reason to celebrate the birth of Jesus at the same time as the pagan Yule solstice; the death of Jesus at the time of the spring celebrations in honor of the goddess Easter, and John the Baptist's birthday at the time of the pagan Midsummer's Eve!

Good landscaping more of an art

For Chris and Lee Bruner landscaping is more than just mowing lawns and shovelling dirt. For the owners of Pembina Valley Landscaping, improving the appearance of a garden, planter or front yard is more of an art.

When it comes to the work, Lee Bruner says, "There are two types of people: people who know what they're doing and people who don't."

"It can be something someone does as a hobby; anyone can go out and buy a tractor and the work can be very lackadaisical, but good landscaping can be very technical," he says.

"To do it properly you have to start with a design and to do a proper design you have to know how big given plants and trees are going to grow and you have to remember you're doing it for all seasons, winter included.

"We try to look at it from a technical view," Bruner explains, "real good landscaping is an art."

Pembina Valley Landscaping consists soley of Bruner and his wife, two horticulture graduates from Olds College. Bruner worked in Calgary and Edmonton before setting up the company here six years ago. "I didn't like the city so I came back here and started working for myself," he says.

While the business is involved in landscaping generally, Lee Bruner sees the company as two separate entities, with one involved in rototilling and seeding and the other involved in tree moving.

"We started off with a Massey Ferguson on the back of a trailer and began rototilling gardens the first year. Then we went on to seeding and seeding jobs and just about everything else you can imagine."

Then two years ago the Bruners purchased a tree mover which "added a new dimension to the business."

Now, Bruner says, "it's almost like two businesses put together."

And the business may add a third dimension if the couple's plans for a nursery take root.

While the costs of good landscaping may seem expensive it pays for itself in several ways. It can add to the value of property and the property's visual appeal and it can help lower heating and cooling costs.

According to the federal government, Bruner says, at least 15 per cent of a house and property is valued on landscaping and by improving the area you can double the value of the cost of the landscaping. So if a homeowner spent $7,000 on improving the yard and land surrounding the house, he could add $14,000 to the value of the property, he says.

Depending on what types of trees and where they're planted you can save on heating and cooling bills, he adds. "It varies from place to place, but usually you would plant evergreens on the north side for shelter in the winter and deciduous trees on the south for shade in the summer and since they lose their leaves in the fall, you get the full advantage of the winter sun."

But not everything in landscaping is rosey. For one, the work is seasonal, with its busiest time in spring where Brunar can work seven-days-a-week, 14 hours a day

Grade 4 student Coreen Baumann.

Student wants to teach

Student-at Random

Not many 10-year-olds know what they want to do when they grow up, but Coreen Baumann is one who does.

Baumann, a Grade 4 student at Elementary B School, wants to be a teacher. "I think it would be fun to teach kids and teachers get paid good money," she said.

She has two sisters but would like to have an older brother. "Sometimes my sister gets in my bedroom. I think boys are more calm than girls," she said.

Her hobbies include baseball and hockey. She thinks that boys feel they are better at sports than girls. "Boys think they are better and that they could whip 'em." Baumann said that's true only some of the time.

She lives on a farm near Drayton Valley. Her family owns a lot of animals such as rabbits, pigs, cows, chickens, ducks and cats, so she has chores to do. They moved there recently but Baumann likes it better on the farm than in town. "(On the farm), you're not worried that someone will break in. It's a lot safer here."

Leduc County mill rate unchanged

By David Bailey

Most residents of Leduc County will see no change in property taxes this year, after county council approved a budge May 10 which sets the same mill rate as 1983 on most lands.

The budget bylaw pegs the mill rate for farm land at 16 mills and recreation land at 15 mills, the same tax rates as last year.

The mill rate is $3.97 for commercial and industrial property, farm land owned by a non-family corporation, and farm land owned by a non-Albertan, a slight drop from last year's 39.10.

The only mill rate to increase in the new budget is for power and pipelines, set at $9.97 this year compared to $2.71.

The owner of a quarter-section farm with an assessment of $40,000 will pay $780 in property taxes.

Reeve Norman Bittner says a slight expansion of assessment during the past year brought relief to the budget process.

"It probably happened a little smoother and easier than we were expecting," he says.

"We have some additional businesses in the park to give us a little larger assessment, which was one of the keys."

The total number of public roads gravelled will change little in the coming year, but council scrapped its policy of gravelling private driveways about once every three years when nearby roads are gravelled, Bittner says.

The decision to cut the driveway service will be reviewed after one year and doesn't affect new driveways.

Even though the mill rate is unchanged for most taxpayers, the size of the county budget will increase from $15.7 million to $19 million.

The budget is inflated about $2 million because the county will buy sewer line right-of-ways this year and later receive full compensation from the provincial government, explains Larry Majeski, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The school supplementary requisition will be lower for most county taxpayers, down from 7.72 to 7.6.

Majeski says the reduction in school tax is caused by a slight expansion in county assessment, as well as an increase in the county's share of power and pipeline taxes. The newly-formed Leduc school district is not eligible for the power and pipeline tax credit, leaving other municipalities with a greater share.

Protective services spending will jump from about $151,000 to $217,000 after council decided to hire a full-time fire chief in Thorsby later this year, enter a more costly ambulance agreement, and approve a new bylaw which allows fire co-operatives to bill the county for unpaid firefighting services. The county will recover the firefighting cost by adding the unpaid bill directly to the property tax of the fire victim.

County council anticipates spending $87,000 on councillor salaries compared to $70,000 last year, following the recent decision to boost council pay.

The budget for Family and Community Support Services will rise from about $331,000 to $391,000, although 80 per cent is covered by provincial grants.

The FCSS increase is for services such as Meals on Wheels, handyman and home help programs, and play schools.

Taxes from Edmonton International Airport rose during 1983 from about $910,000 to $942,000 as a result of construction.

The reason for the past two years is the incurring of unusual expenses, says Dee Parker, county recreation director.

Drayton Valley offers some of best education in Canada

MLA's Report with Shirley Cripps

Often we spend so much time criticizing education that we fail to appreciate the opportunities available to our children. In Drayton Valley there are 1,500 students and 93 teachers dedicated to helping each and every one of these students obtain the best education possible.

I am convinced we have one of the best education programs in Canada. We have excellent facilities and well trained, dedicated teachers.

The Alberta government has emphasized basic educational reform this session, as outlined in the Speech from the Throne. The School Act is being reviewed and curriculum at the junior and senior high school levels is being re-evaluated. The public has been asked to help make suggestions for future changes to the education system.

Education Minister Dave King announced last week that programs for gifted and talented children will receive $2 million next school year. Each school will determine how this allotted money will be used. About five per cent of the students in Grades 1 through 12 will be eligible for the new program.

The province of Alberta spent $1,158,114,689 on education. Another $871,436,988 is spent on advanced education which brings the total educational expenditures to $2,029,550,577.

Parents, teachers, governments and school boards are all dedicated to ensuring the best educational results and opportunities for every educational dollar spent. Education is everyone's responsibility. The Alberta educational system must teach our children the skills required in a competitive world marketplace.

The new Child Welfare Act has been introduced in the Legislature. The emphasis is on the definition of a child in need of protection and that the family unit is central to the fabric of society. For the first time there is a statement of the interrelationship of children and families.

Three transportation projects have been announced in the constituency. The base course paving on Highway 22 will be done this summer, including the west entrance to Buck Lake from Highway 13.

Highway 13 will be overlaid from the Pigeon Lake Park Road to Winfield.

Highway 39 will be overlaid for 15 miles east of Carnwood. Base course on 616 has already been tendered. Lighting will be installed at Warburg corner for safety reasons as a result of a discussion at the public meeting.

During session I can be reached in my legislature office at 427-1543 (call toll-free through Zenith 22883). Also my constituency office is open Mondays and Wednesdays at 542-3855 or call me at my residence at 662-3768.

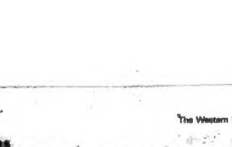
White stuff has many names

Low nutrition in sugar



District Home Economist

by Janice McGregor
542-5368

Does eating too much sugar cause diabetes, heart disease and other disorders? Is increasing consumption of sugar in foods a factor in the widespread overweight and obesity seen in this country? We don't know everything about the dietary role of sugar in health, but we do know quite a bit.

Dietary sugar consists of a group of sweeteners, including sucrose, corn or glucose syrups, and sugars that occur naturally in foods lactose in milk and fructose in fruit. The most common sugar is table sugar (sucrose).

In the seventies, consumption of caloric sweeteners increased about 32 pounds, mostly as a result of sweeteners added to commercially prepared foods such as soft drinks, salad dressings, peanut butter, and ketchup as well as cakes, pies and candies.

Sugars and sweeteners play an important role in food preparation. Besides making foods taste good, they add texture and color to baked products like breads and pastries, and help thicken, firm, or preserve puddings and jellies.

Commonly eaten sugars and sweeteners offer little nutritionally except calories. When sugars and sweeteners make up a substantial share of calories, they may replace other foods which offer vitamins, minerals and protein in addition to calories. Because sweets are well-liked and contribute calories without bulk or fibre, it is easy to eat more of them - and more calories - than realized. More calories than needed cause a weight gain.

Sweet foods, especially sticky sweets, are a major cause of dental caries. Between-meal sweets are worse offenders than the same foods eaten with meals. The total amount of sugar eaten is not as important as how many times, how long and the form of sugary food to which teeth are exposed, and whether or not teeth are cleaned after eating sugary foods.

Apart from sugar's role in tooth decay and its potential contribution to obesity, there is little evidence that directly links sugar with various disorders. Anyone concerned about the level of sugar in a diet should keep the following points in mind.

Sugar is not the only word to look for on labels. Words such as sucrose, glucose, dextrose, fructose, corn syrups, and invert sugar are also sugar. Ingredients are listed in descending order of amounts, and if sugar is one of the first three ingredients listed, it is not a good food choice.

Fruit juices or water should be substituted for soft drinks, punches, fruit drinks and ades which contain considerable amounts of sugar.

Canned fruits are often canned in heavy syrups or high sugar content. Canned fruit should be in its own juice, other fruit juices, light syrup or water. Better still are frozen, which often have no sugar added at all.

One should experiment with reducing the amount of sugar in favorite recipes. Products may taste and look different.

Race meet fun despite rain

By Carol Dietzel

Inclement skies and the odd rain shower were hardly noticed at the 18th annual Alder Flats Race Meet and Barbecue on Saturday.

A large crowd gathered to join in the day's fun-filled activities which began with a pancake breakfast and ladies' baseball tournament.

A parade complete with horses, chuckwagons, and decorated bicycles started at 1 p.m.

Young and old competitors took part in the eight races that followed. The first race was the three-eighths mi. for horses 14-3 hands and under. The winner was Dinas Pinion of Breton and second place went to Teresa Pinion of Breton.

The pony chariot races were competitive and entertaining. Ron Harden of Drayton Valley won the race with a time of 51.5 sec., followed closely in second place by Denny Harden of Palm in 53.2 sec.

The walk, trot and run race was divided in senior and junior competitions. Winner in the senior division was Debby Watson of Alder Flats, with Richard Miller of Alder Flats coming in second. Nyle Clemmer was the runaway winner in the junior contest. Shawn Harden came in second.

One of the most entertaining events was the sack-ride race. Things didn't go like clockwork for some of the contestants but the eventual winners were Russell Seely and Nyle Clemmer, both of Alder Flats, in first with a time of 39.4 sec. Kevin [illegible] of Drayton Valley were a close second with a time of [illegible].

The pony chuckwagons provided good, fast-paced entertainment with some very close contests. Ron Harden of Drayton Valley came out the winner in 56.9 sec. and Clare Clemmer of Wainwright wasn't far behind, coming second with a time of 58.9 sec.

Even though there were only two contestants, the pack horse race was competitive. The Doyle Seely team from Alder Flats came out on top in 61.9 sec. and the Bill Moody team of Alder Flats were second with a time of 65 sec.

One highlight of the day was the mutton bustin' competition. Contestants under 45 lbs. rode sheep that were pretty wild at times. Kurt Pearson came out in first place with a score of 76 from the judges. Josh Warnecke was a very close second with a score of 74.

The half-mile open had the crowd on its feet with the top two horses running neck and neck. Ruby Lyster of Winfield pulled ahead in the last second to win, with Russell Seely of Alder Flats just a fraction of a second behind.

Proposal could change boundries

By David Hedley

The Leduc County will have more councillors in the east and fewer in the west, if the provincial government follows through with proposed boundary changes to electoral divisions.

County council learned Thursday Alberta Municipal Affairs is considering re-aligning the boundaries of electoral divisions in time for the next municipal election.

If the changes go ahead as planned, Divisions 1 and 2 would undergo drastic reductions in population, with the remaining divisions experiencing a slight growth in population to take up the slack.

The result would be four councillors representing areas east of Calmar, whereas the same areas are now represented by three councillors.

The shuffle is needed because of an uneven spread of population under existing boundaries, says Archie Glover, Alberta Municipal Affairs deputy minister, in a letter to county council.

"It is important the concept of representation by population be adhered to as closely as possible," he says.

Based on the 1981 federal census, the population is 2,966 in Division 1; 2,070 in Division 2; 1,852 in Division 3; 1,576 in Division 4; 1,488 in Division 5; 1,716 in Division 6 and 1,368 in Division 7.

The proposed re-alignment gives each division about 1,800 residents.

Council, in its response to Grover's letter, expressed dissatisfaction with the large area and the larger population allotted Divisions 6 and 7.

The proposal had its humorous side too.

"It appears that Mike (Strypko) and I will be running against each other in the next election," said Reeve Norman Bittner with a laugh.

Both Bittner and Coun. Gene Begg pointed out they may lose areas where projects have recently been completed.

"I've got a lot of support in Sunnybrook and now Coun. Begg is going to get them," Bittner joked.
